NORWAY VICINITY

A new bus schedule goes into effect January 8, next Sunday. Read it in the Hearst and Sun columns.
There will be a stated communication of the Oxford Lodge No. 18, F. & M. S., Friday evening, Jan. 6. Work in the Master Mason Degree.
The first meeting for the year of Lake Temple Lythian was held Tuesday evening, Jan. 5, at 8 o'clock. A large number attended. Installation will be held Tuesday evening Jan. 17, to which the Knights have been invited. The good will given by the complete degree staff and a buffet lunch served after the meeting.

The skating rink is nearly ready for use. Sub-zero weather has been favorable for spraying and Tuesday evening part of the surface was flooded. Now there is a solid bottom and water will be turned on if cold weather continues. During the meantime the young people are gliding over the surface near the bathhouses. The telephone informs us about a novelty and surprise called "Sally's Kitchen Band" to be given in American Legion Hall, Jan. 26. There is some mystery about the entertainment for the present, but the sponsors will let the world know in due time.

Herbert B. Wright dropped into the office after an absence of several months. He and his wife have been in the sun, shine at Palm Beach for weeks but the call of Wrightstone Farm in Norway could not be resisted and they arrived Friday to remain a good part of the winter. Mr. and Mrs. Wright motored from Florida to New York City in three days, after a short rest they completed the journey by rail. Mr. Wright is getting set for the spring campaign in the market several thousand R. L. Bell, day old chicks, together with shipping several hundred pullets for his well known strain.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Woods served Christmas dinner to two guests, Monday, which included Mrs. Woods' parents and family. Mr. and Mrs. Frank McAllister, Inez, Mae, Gordon and Frances of Norway; her uncle, Harry Hatch, of West Paris; her aunt, Mrs. Amos McKen of North Lovell, and son, Eugene Flint, and wife and mother, Mrs. Hines, of Lovell, who were in town to attend the funeral of Miss Louise Peck of Norway, also Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Woods and Orin Eames of Portland. Mrs. Woods is spending a few days with his brother, Byron H. Woods, while he is recovering from an operation at the State Street Hospital, Portland.
Howard Maxim drove the car to Portland, Wednesday, for Mrs. Victorine Blanchard. Mrs. Potter went along with them so to take her mother to Boston. Mrs. Potter is the mother of H. P. Potter, the civil engineer.

Dr. A. W. Easton was called to Bridgton, Thursday, Dec. 29, by the illness and death of his father, Thomas N. Easton. He returned home Saturday night.

Eleanor, Betty and Robert Easton, the children of Dr. and Mrs. A. W. Easton, have been ill with the measles but are gaining now.

Mrs. Charles H. Sargent entertained the Monday Club at her home. There were two tables at the dinner.

Mrs. Estella Carroll was called to Auburn, Monday, because of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Burton Shaw, who has the grip.

Miss Edith Philbrick, a former Norway teacher, who is teaching in Westport, Ct., visited Miss Alma Taylor and Miss Ethel Favin, Monday. She has been visiting her parents in Oquossoc during the holidays.

Philip Greenleaf, who has been spending the days vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris L. Greenleaf, of the Sprucey night for Chicago, to resume his studies at the Northwestern Medical College, where he is taking a course in dentistry.

Mrs. Leon G. Newcomb and daughter, Adelaide, have been visiting Mrs. Charles Beaulieu in Portland, a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Stearns left the Farm, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cobb and son, Donald, of Lynn, Mass. over the week end. Mrs. Shepard's party, Miss Alma Foster, has been here for some months, accompanied by her daughter, Lynn, being on the way to her home at South Royalton, Vermont.

Carol Denison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Denison, had a party this week, on the event of her sixth birthday, which was on Christmas day, though the party was held a few days later. She entertained her friends at the party, which was held at her home, the primary school from 10 until 1 o'clock with games and stories. A lunch was served. Her guests were Constance Currier, Isabel Corey, Dorothy Greenleaf, Edith Holt and Adelaide Newcomb.

Orin Stone, a student at St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., is home for the January vacation. He returns in February and completes his course this year.

Miss Laurence Foster entertained recently in honor of her birthday. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Peck, Jr., of New York City, and her sister, Miss Alice Foster, who was in order for the evening. Among the other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Cummings, Miss Alice Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Mason of South Paris.

Miss Emily Davis left this week for Washington, D. C., for an indefinite stay. She has been with Mrs. Elizabeth Stone for some months.

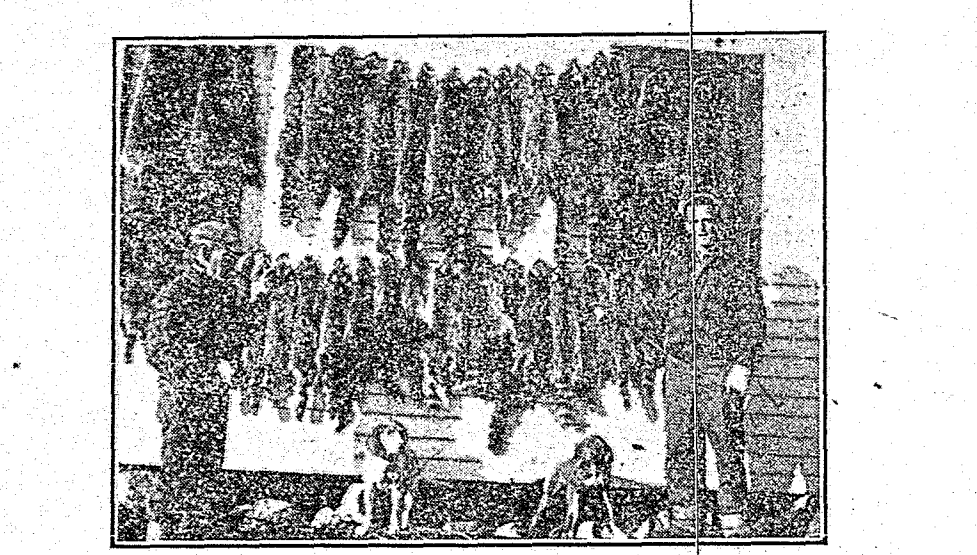

Mrs. Geo. P. Locke has returned from Springfield, Mass. after a stay with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Chamberlain, since Thanksgiving week. Col. William Tudor Gardner of Gardiner addressed the Norway Club Tuesday afternoon at Legion Hall. His address was confined to state industries and activities, with a comprehensive summary of the present situation. He emphasized the economic situation and the need for economic development in the state. He presented legislative measures which he believed would bring about efficiency and reforms in various departments. His entertainment was given by Rebecca and Bernice Sharon, and refreshments were served.

Ed S. Brown has bought Thomas F. Smith's interest in the Smiley & Hansen dry goods store at Bridgton. Commencing this week, the firm will be known as Brown & Hansen.

The Famous Quartette and Their Trophies

The above is a picture of the famous Denmark quartette of 'coon-hunters,' Frank and 'Freck,' Fran and 'Frieda,' and the forty trophies of many evening all-night sessions during the 'coon-hunting' season.

Frank Jack, on the left, with 'Freckles,' and Francis Perry, right, with 'Frieda,' have fitted here and over the country round about, night after night, and notwithstanding the fact that slumbering citizens have been disturbed, or that farmers hearing the racket have thought their pumpkins were disappearing, the hunters have always returned with what they want.

The young men feel well repaid for all their sleepless nights, for what sportsman does not enjoy the music of dogs in full cry? And even though the 'coon-hunting' season is now over, tales of their thrilling adventures, when 'Freck' and 'Frieda' solved the mystery of a difficult trail, when Frank lost the flashlight, or when 'ladies' night' was observed, may still be heard by appreciative listeners.

Blue Store Burglarized

Sixty of the Best Suits Stolen
Thieves ushered in the New Year with a celebration at the L. P. Pike Co. and carried away sixty suits of men's clothing valued at $1,800, probably between 2 and 3 o'clock Sunday morning.

The burglars forced open a window next to Beal's Tavern with a jimmy and removed the goods through a window in the rear where a truck or automobile received the merchandise.

Only the higher grade suits and popular sizes were taken, showing among other things that the visitors were familiar with several standard brands represented in the large stock carried by the company.

Sheriff W. O. Frothingham is working on the case, but little has been discovered that might be used for clues. The job is believed to have been done by professionals.

MEETING OF TWIN TOWN NATURE CLUB

The Twin Town Nature Club met Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Cummings. Thirty-five members and several guests were present and the following program was enjoyed.

Roll Call, Winter Quotations
Club Roll Call, Winter Quotations

Winter Bird Study—P. F. Stone, President, D. D. Stone, Secretary, and a talk on bird banding and a Christmas note from Happy Valley Farm were read, bringing memories of June days.

Some feeding devices were shown, a serious spool pool, seed balls, etc., and many suggestions given by members. Directions and material for making suit bags were given to the ladies and all agreed to make a garden tree, a breakfast for hungry birds on many a cold winter morning.

One member, thinking to complete her work, was presented with a china bird suit shakers with card which read: No doubt you've tried to make a bag. So take them to your new bird suit. And yet your work was not complete. So take them to your new bird suit.

A social hour followed, talking over winter studies and summer plans and enjoying Mr. Cummings' famous collection from many lands.

The February meeting will be at South Paris.

THE NORWAY WOMAN'S CLUB

A public card party will be held Tuesday evening, Jan. 8, at 8 o'clock, at the Legion Hall, under the auspices of the Norway Woman's Club. Everyone is invited to attend and tables will be provided for all guests. The program will include bridge, whist, '63', or anything else. Each member of the club is expected to provide a table to be sure of a big crowd.

The following committee composed of Mrs. Elizabeth Bartlett, Mrs. V. Blanchard, Mrs. M. Cummings, Mrs. Alice Tucker, Mrs. Grace Cummings, Mrs. Reta Jackson, Mrs. Helen Bickford, Mrs. Agnes McCready, Mrs. Martha Lyseth.

The January meeting of the Club was held Tuesday afternoon and the next singing books were christened. The speaker of the afternoon was Col. William Tudor Gardner, who gave an interesting talk on the activities of the State, partly through institutions and partly through departments.

Many facts and figures were given to show how the money is used for the many purposes. After this talk, the Misses Rubira and Bernice Sharon gave a vocal duet. A social hour followed and Mr. and Mrs. Gardner were given an informal reception. Tea and sandwiches were served. The next meeting will be January 17, and this will be a business meeting and gentlemen's night will take place the 20th instead of the 17th, and the speaker will be A. G. Staples of Lewiston. The Legion Auxiliary will serve the banquet.

Virgil O. Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Dunn, started for Augusta, Ga., Tuesday morning, by auto, where he will have employment at the Ricker Hotel. Mr. Dunn, accompanied him as far as Massachusetts where he will remain for several weeks.

Mrs. Elsie Mattor spent Sunday and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Babb of Auburn, formerly of Norway.

Mrs. Eva Kimball is taking a vacation from her duties at Norway Public Library and visiting her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Cook, at Biddeford, Me.

Mrs. George L. Stearns, who has been in the city for the past week, is leaving for her home at the Farm, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cobb and son, Donald, of Lynn, Mass. over the week end.

NORWAY, ME. FRIDAY, JANUARY 6, 1928.

Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office

"Cappy" Smith's grand boxing carnival takes place this Thursday night and a mighty rush for ringside seats is expected. Everything is in place and no cold feet have developed. Bill Ledger is the third man within the ropes and will keep the bouts ticking off in regular order. Large delegations from surrounding towns are expected for the news has been spread far and wide.

The telephone rang the other day and Mrs. Joe Lary informed us that work was progressing good at the Farm, Pond and Elmer Morrill and a helper were getting the wood chopped and that Thaxter Doughty had the ice nearly all in the house. That this winter was exceptionally good quality. The extreme cold weather was freezing up the bog and would soon be ready to haul the wood across from the wood lot.

Only one day left Friday, lost a long rod of iron from his truck, going to East Waterford. He wants to find it.

Perley A. Doughty 38 market Square, South Paris, has a horse for sale. Read his ad in the Intelligence Column.

For the year just closed the car has run 5558 miles. Number of gallons of gas bought 423, costing $102.44. Average miles per gallon was 13.35, or in other words a little less than 13 miles. This year Walter used No-Nox gas when he could get it. He probably speeded up a little more. The cost has been a little less than 20 cents per mile.

For the season of 1926 the car was run 5457 miles. Number of gallons of gas used was 477, costing $130.08. The average was 11.57 miles per gallon of gas.

A boy, fresh from college, believes in everything—even himself. It is only when he becomes pessimistic that he begins to lose power. And pessimism, is the result of accepting the standards of other people. If we would cling to the standard we erect when we are young and full of enthusiasm, not permitting facts to alter at the present to hinder our efforts to accomplish what we started to do, we would accomplish more and have a lot of fun while doing it.—F. Why do we permit our sensibilities, our petty pride, to interfere with the efficiency of our activities? An umbrella merchant doesn't get peeved when there comes a long spell of sunny weather, nor does the maker of stags feel disappointed because of the short season that his wares are in demand. But if the opinion that either one has regarding a political or social movement is not based on fact, or on any matter of major importance, is opposed by another, even a friend of long standing and proved fidelity, feelings are hurt, the placidity of friendship is disturbed, frequently to the detriment of what might be of use to us.

Don't say "I will" but "I have." How About Yours?

A year ago we burnt a full dozen cob pipes. This year we have only three and none to spare.

Settled all our small debts everywhere and joined a Christmas Saving Club.

It's not too late for you to do likewise, provided you have the wherewithal and disposition.

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

The country newspaper carries exactly the news its subscribers want to read. It is thoroughly read, for it is read.

We are accused of devoting a lot of space to small town news. This is true. When Mrs. William G. Smith sees that her news is read, she is proud to have made her a friend for life. Just let us leave out a news item, omit a name, or spell a name wrong in a list of among the present at a party and a dozen will drop in or phone to tell us about it.

More people in our town are interested in our fellow townsmen who has painted his house than in the multi-millionaire who erects a million-dollar house on Long Island.

The senior senator from Maine, Senator Hale.

This comes as no surprise, for it has long been forecast that the Governor would take such action. The announcement of Brewster's candidacy is interesting as a news item, but the friends of Senator Hale are not unduly alarmed thereby.

Maine and the country at large recognize Senator Hale as one of the really big men in Congress and while the Brewster candidacy will serve to inject a little pep into the coming campaign, it will not seriously affect Senator Hale's chances for re-nomination and reelection.

The Republicans of Maine have not so soon forgotten Brewster's attitude in the Gould campaign and have not forgotten that he repudiated the Republican candidate at a time when the affairs of the party at Washington were approaching a crisis.

Brewster never was strong with the party workers and he has done nothing during his three years administration as chief executive to add to what little strength he does have.

DECEMBER REPORT NORWAY NURSING SERVICE

The January meeting of the executive committee was held at the regular time, 7:30, Tuesday evening, Jan. 5. Mrs. Hattie C. Brown, treasurer, reports that with fifty some letters containing Christmas Health Seals not yet returned, over $300 has been received for seals and bonds. She wishes to publish a final report on the seal sale next week. The nurse made the following report:

The work of the month has been chiefly with measles, some visits for mumps, a few for chicken-pox. Forty-five visits were made to schools in the village and Norway. There were 120 cases of measles.

Three children were excluded from the schools for symptoms of measles. Among school children the nurse has visited 31 cases of measles, 2 of mumps, 1 of chicken-pox. To the 27 cases of measles listed as patients, 95 visits were made. Temperature, pulse and respiration were observed and recorded, mumps cleaned in many cases and in a few instances, blots were given. The total number of visits for the month was 209 to 53 homes. Visits to the office total 30. The fees for the month are $37.25.

An evening class in Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick was met first on Dec. 12. The course includes 12 two-hour periods. In a letter sent to parents from the school, a plan to have lunches was proposed. Eighteen favorable responses have been received and the plan has been adopted.

Because of the measles in town no effort has been made to increase attendance at Well Baby Conferences. It has, however, been better than in November, with a total of 12 for the 5 Fridays.

With the approach of time to reopen school in the hope of preventing the spread of others to measles, parents of children in lower and middle primary were sent a letter asking if the child had not had measles to have him kept at home to complete the period of incubation. All the children of these classes were exposed before the close of school. Measles is extremely contagious—three families the mother has developed. With the exception of three cases in high school, the source of which is not known, all the cases are attributed by the nurse as traceable to these grades.

Special Officer Harry O. Stinson is on his way to Atlanta, Ga., with a number of prisoners and accompanying Deputy Marshal Simon Harrison, who is in charge of the prisoners sentenced at the Superior Court held recently in Portland.

State Highway Policemen Charles Patten of Norway and George Wood of Oxford are located for the present in the Auburn district. Miss Stevens of the force is handling traffic in this territory. The department's efforts at present are directed toward registrations and number plates with a check-up on lights to follow.

Harr' Rust Relief Corp will hold regular meeting Tuesday evening, Jan. 10. The annual roll call supper will be held at this time with Mrs. Alice Blomquist in charge. Installation of officers will take place. Every member is asked to make an effort to be present. Members will invite their husbands or a guest for the supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Andrews and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Packard were in Boston the first of the week. Mr. Andrews bought horses for the Andrews Sale Stable and Mr. Packard was on business connected with the Norway Shoe Co.

Mrs. Dorothy Newcomb has returned to her school at Hartford, Connecticut, after a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Newcomb.

Merchandise from the Norway National Bank was sold at auction on Monday, Jan. 8, at 2 o'clock. The goods were sold to the benefit of the Norway National Bank.

Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Stearns entertained a New Year's party and celebrated the 26th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James N. Faver. In the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. George L. Stearns, Mr. and Mrs. L. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. James N. F

SUMMER

Old Fashioned Snow Storm—Sleigh Rides, Visitors, Logging and News.

We had an old fashioned snow-storm Dec. 18, that blocked the roads for nearly all motor cars, and some were stalled away from home, and the following day all hands were called to break out the roads, and, closely following, we had more snow, but soon it came out mild again and the roads were never better, making traffic between Lewiston and Rumford a pleasure. Yes, I mean through the Green Woods route and many of the locals took advantage of the smooth roads which made Rumford a pleasure trip.

Liam Farrar, our local butcher, has dressed off more than fifty pigs for his neighbors this fall, including one for the writer. Liam recently received a letter from the party that he sold the hundred dollar dog to early this fall, saying that he got eight good boxes ahead of Jack and that Jack is some dog. He also sent Liam a perfect picture of the dog, some might think a lunch bucket some price for a canine away back here in Maine, but let me tell you by experience that a good hunting dog is cheap at any old price. If the man behind the gun foot the part and a poor dog in the woods is poor property at any price. I know, for I have had both kinds and a good many of them. Liam owes the money of Jack, and he had the misfortune of having her caught in a fox trap this fall where she was held for two days and nights, which practically used her up for this season, she is of the same quality of her son, Jack.

Irving Bartlett left Rhode Island Dec. 20, came as far as South Bellingham, Mass., stopping there that night with Mr. and Mrs. Burr and family and the next morning he came through Boston and down the line for home, and his sister, Jack, joined him at Buckfield, the next stop being their destination by rail, and there they were met by their mother, and soon they arrived at their old home among the cedars and Irving was tired from the long trip by rail.

Tuesday, the 20th, Miss Hazel Burr of South Bellingham, Mass., left her home and came to East Sumner by rail, where she was met by Mrs. Bartlett with a horse and sleigh and she enjoyed a fine sleigh ride to the Bartlett home. Owing to Miss Burr attending her home Christmas party on an annual event, she could not come at the same time that Irving did. Miss Burr is a school teacher in Worcester, Mass., where she has taught for several years. She brought her snowshoes and skis along and she certainly does not mind the outdoors and mountain climbing as well as she did when spending her vacation here in August.

Wednesday evening, Mrs. Emerson Bartlett and son, Irving, and Miss Burr and Doris Bartlett spent the evening at Mrs. Charles Russell's, going by sleigh. Thursday morning, Mrs. Bartlett carried Doris to the train at East Sumner where she returned to her position at the Hotel at Buckfield, after spending a few days at her home where she was an exceedingly welcome guest.

Lovell Chandler called in last week to ask me to have the Advertiser sent to West Paris for the winter as he was going to work there in the Penley birch mill, beginning just after New Year's day; Joseph Ring who has been working for Bill Cushman in the birch woods, has also gone to the Penley mill.

Donald and Floyd Varney and Charles Tuttle have finished up cutting birch on the Stetson lot for this season and have one hundred cords of their credit, and they are hauling it to the Tibbets mill. Liam Farrar is working with his horses in the birch woods with Lell Poland, on the Lave lot for the Penley Bros.

P. V. Redding went to Rumford, Saturday, with his truck loaded to capacity. S. G. Barrett & Son have a two horse team hauling birch for Mr. Bosse at the Penley lot. James Skiles also has a pair working there, also keeps his driving horse there, the teams are laid off for a time on account of the thaw with a little rain we had here last week setting the snow, so that there are a lot of bare ground places in the roads. S. G. & Son are furnishing the hay for all of the teams at the Bosse camp this winter. Mr. Bosse intends to have twelve horses hauling as soon as there is snow enough.

Upon the Chesley woods there are four horses, and four oxen, doing the hauling from the lot to East Sumner. At the Bosse colony of camps there are eight stoves and when it is cold weather, all are fired up to blowing off pitch. Mr. Bosse has about nine hundred cords of birch cut at this time and still has a crew working in the woods.

Mr. Keniston, the foreman for the Tibbets Company and a wizard along the birch mill route, and one of the Company was up to the Bosse lot last week, looking over the quality of the goods.

Donner spent Thursday evening at Irving Bartlett's home, last week; Irving and Carl are old pals.

Lell Poland has leased the Martin place formerly the George Dyer farm, having stored his furniture there for the winter and will move there in early spring.

Mrs. Emerson Bartlett carried her son, Irving, and Miss Hazel Burr to the station at East Sumner, Tuesday morning, where they checked all their luggage to Boston by same train and due there at about 2 P. M. There they have nearly two hours to lunch and from there by rail to Franklin, Mass., where they will be met by Miss Burr's brother, Harold, by auto and go to her home at So. Bellingham, Mass., when Miss Burr will resume her duties as teacher in Worcester, Mass.

Tuesday morning, and Irving will begin where he left off on a Rhode Island milk farm, the same day.

Joseph Bosse recently exchanged his Ford truck for an Essex Coach. It is said that C. C. Russell recently refused four hundred dollars for his Hareford coach.

More rain here Saturday that put the roads on the bum for motor travel, for the day, but a telephone message from Lewiston to one of Joseph Bosse's men that his wife was sick and for him to come home so Joseph started his Essex coach for Lewiston with the man. Joe said the roads were fearful until he got to Buckfield. Joe was back to his camp in less than four hour's time.

I AM SPEED

"I Ride the Highways like the wind, ask me no quarter and giving none."

"I Laugh in satanic mirth at trembling women and screaming children who shrink by the roadside as I pass."

"I Dash through crowded streets and avenues of the city, where people in congested armies, go to and fro earning their daily bread."

"I Kill wantonly hundreds of them because they will not heed and make way."

"I Traverse the streets bordered with beautiful homes, where peace and love abide, and for the pure joy of killing I crush tender bodies of little children at play. Their dying moans are like music to me as I rush on. Age, with tottering feet and dimmed eyes, get in my path and I leave it cold and silent against the curb."

"I Love nothing except my own selfish pleasure, which is to Destroy. I have no thought, only to race with the wind and reap the whirlwind. The cities and the highways are my own. I win in many races because death is my mechanism. I am Speed, Beware!"—Berlin Reporter.

Whist Club Met—Eather Ash of Jamaica Here—Radios Being Installed.

The Lafolat Whist Club met with Mrs. W. P. Smith at her home on Elm Street, Friday evening, which is the regular meeting night of this jolly crowd. There were three tables at play, with refreshments of kisses and chocolates. The high score was won by Mrs. W. A. Hunter and Mrs. Frank Nevers.

Eather Ash of Jamaica, N. Y., is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. N. E. Whitney, on High Street.

Stanley Whitney is in Portland attending business college.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Fields of Cumberland Mills were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Packard.

Mrs. Fred Adams of Gorham is working at Dan Wood's while Mr. Adams is working in the woods at North Waterford.

Mrs. Cora Green of Hiram spent the past two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Green, on Temple Street.

F. C. Green motored Monday, to Portland. Mona Green and Ethel Whitney accompanied him, on their return to Boston.

Hollis H. Caswell, the radio salesman and "doctor," is a busy man these days. He has sold and installed 8 new machines the past few days and has always plenty on hand in his "hospital" for treatment. He has a fine work shop and devotes a large portion of his time to his work. Patrons and "patients" come from some distance for consultation and advice.

Mrs. E. Nelson Carruthers and two children, who have spent the winter with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Keen, have returned to their home in Rumford.

Miss Helen Caswell entertained a few friends at her home on Main Street, Tuesday evening. Whist was enjoyed and the first prize went to Mrs. B. W. Harmon the second to Mrs. Mildred Haley. Delinquent refreshments were served by Miss Caswell and a most delightful evening was enjoyed.

Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Hunter were in Portland last week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pembroke spent Christmas in Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Louis Briggs were at Floral Lawn Farm during their absence.

Mrs. H. O. Kneeland is ill with a severe cold at her home on School Street. Mrs. Bessie Powers has been caring for her.

Mrs. Walter Dudley was a recent guest of Mrs. Eliza Charles, in South Waterford.

New radios have been installed at Dr. J. P. Blake's and Mrs. B. W. Harmon's. Mrs. A. W. Dudley fell on the ice at her home on Main Street and cut her head so badly several stitches were required.

Mr. and Mrs. George Maxfield and family have gone to Edes Falls for the winter where Mr. Maxfield has employment.

Friends of Mrs. Frank Ridlon are pleased to hear that she is making a good recovery from her serious operation at the Maine Eye and Ear Infirmary in Portland.

Wm. Jordan, son of Charles Jordan, of North Harrison, is very ill at the hospital with a serious case of appendicitis.

HEYWOOD CLUB NOTES

The annual meeting of the Heywood Club was held at the home of Mrs. J. Lovoy, December 28. All officers were present. Twenty members and visitors enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. After the regular club meeting, the annual reports were read and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President—Eleanor Lovoy; Vice President—Richardson; Secretary—Lina Parker; Treasurer—Adeline Young. The standing committees will be appointed at the next regular meeting. After the business meeting was over, a buffet lunch consisting of assorted cake, pie and fudge cookies, together with hot chocolate, was served and a social hour followed.

The club has held dances, suppers and various parties in the last year to raise money for general improvement on their club house. They have made various repairs inside and out. New curtains and new shingles on all the roofs are a few of the things accomplished at the club house.

The ladies spent a pleasant day recently at the home of Mrs. Noble, sewing for a needy family of little children in a nearby town. Garments old and new contributed by each member, were repaired and made over to fit these unfortunate little ones and a goodly amount of warm clothing will help to make the cold winter less severe for them. We are able to do more of this work and are looking forward to many pleasant gatherings in the coming year.

The ten cent social given by the young people at the Heywood Club House, was a good success. Cards, dancing, and a general good time was enjoyed by all. Refreshments of hot dogs and hot coffee were served.

Grace Nye, representative of the Maine Children's Home at Augusta, is in town soliciting funds, toys and clothing for that institution.

What Builds Babies?

The Baby's Neglected Period

The nine months before a baby is born is the most neglected period of a mother's life. The expectant mother is likely to leave her diet largely to chance or the whims of appetite although she may be most careful of her food during the nursing period. Wrong feeding may be the cause of many of the ailments which beset the child. The mother's diet is not so much a matter of "what she is accustomed to eat" or "plenty of good nourishing food." The pregnant as well as the nursing mother should get out from a physician how much of certain essential foods must be eaten daily.

The food needs during pregnancy and the nursing period differ from those of any other time. The mother's food must maintain and repair her body and furnish fuel for warmth and work, and also provide for the growth of her baby and for maintaining his body temperature.

The club has held dances, suppers and various parties in the last year to raise money for general improvement on their club house. They have made various repairs inside and out. New curtains and new shingles on all the roofs are a few of the things accomplished at the club house.

The ladies spent a pleasant day recently at the home of Mrs. Noble, sewing for a needy family of little children in a nearby town. Garments old and new contributed by each member, were repaired and made over to fit these unfortunate little ones and a goodly amount of warm clothing will help to make the cold winter less severe for them. We are able to do more of this work and are looking forward to many pleasant gatherings in the coming year.

Few of World's Great

Cut Hours of Sleep

It is often said of great men that they needed and took but few hours of sleep. It is true that in their desire to accomplish as much work as possible they have spent no more hours in bed than was necessary, but those who found that less than six or eight hours would suffice them were not great. Alexander von Humboldt, Linnaeus, Cuvier, Dumas, Bismarck and the composer, Dvorak, are all the four-hour sleepers. I have come upon Napoleon, who is sometimes mentioned in this class, took from six to eight hours and did not hesitate to nap in the daytime and even in the midst of conversation. He could go for long periods without sleep, but he always condemned himself to correspondingly long periods of rest afterward, sleeping on one occasion for 35 hours at a stretch.

Steele was a very sound sleeper, and Descartes, who is said to have done more original work than any man of his century, slept a great deal. Brahms could sleep at will and under any conditions, and Dumas, "father writing for some hours at a stretch, would suddenly find himself on his bed, and in a few seconds be sound asleep; 15 or 20 minutes later he would wake up again with equal alertness and return to work—a giant refreshed."—Scientific Monthly.

Hall of Fame Project

Delayed by Quarrel

The first bronze tablets in New York's hall of fame were unveiled as recently as 1901, yet 100 years ago New Yorker began the movement for just such a commemoration of the nation's great. He even offered to make the busts himself and, indeed, did so in a number of cases, only to have his plan rejected, to lie in the discard 75 years. He was John I. Browere, who in the early part of the Nineteenth century was recognized as one of New York's best sculptors. There were many who took to his idea of a hall of fame from the start and urged its adoption. It even reached congress, with high hope of an appropriation to carry out the plan. However, one little incident ruined its prospects. Congress decided to look up Browere. William Dunlap, then considered an authority on art, had written his history. Browere had incurred the displeasure of Dunlap and was mentioned in his book. Browere's congress thought he couldn't public to anything. —Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The thyroid gland, which is necessary for normal growth and health, must have a small amount of iodine in it. Iodine is found in the thyroid gland and forms a goiter. In certain regions, especially around the Great Lakes and in the Northwest, the water and soil are deficient in iodine, so that food grown in those localities may not provide the necessary iodine. At least, in these regions, throughout pregnancy, iodine should be taken in the mother's food as well as in the mother's milk. Iodine should be taken in minute amounts, usually in 10-milligram tablets (about one-sixth of a grain) once a week, or as iodized salt, if possible, it should be directed by a physician.

The Mother's Food Protects Her Baby. The mother's food is the most important factor in the baby's growth and health. During pregnancy and the nursing period the material to build the baby comes either from the mother's food or from the store which she has accumulated in her own body. In case of food shortage the mother suffers first. If necessary she pays for her health of her child with her own flesh and blood, and death. Upon the inadequacy of the feeding of mothers in the past is the adage, "For every child a tooth." Fortunately, with the right food and dental supervision the baby no longer has to pay for his mother's health.

A woman may live in fair health on a diet upon which she cannot properly nourish a baby either before or after birth. But even with a properly balanced diet her ability to supply the right sort of material for the baby's growth has a limit. Her power to do this successfully depends on (1) Her general health and state of nutrition before and after birth. (2) The amount and adequacy of her food. If her food can not supply the child's need, her body must. (3) The length of time she supports the growth of the child, both before and after birth. This is often at least 18 months. Inadequate feeding during pregnancy or the nursing period may lead to the physical depletion of the mother or prevent the normal growth of the baby.

Victory for American Ideals

This country never faced such a period of prosperity as appears to be ahead of it. And therein lies our greatest danger. Can we as a nation keep our heads? A become soft and discontented? Will we in our quest for more of the mumble dollars allow political selfishness to undermine our government with visionary schemes at public expense? Will material prosperity give us the "swellhead" and cause us to feel that we are too "important" to attend to the troublesome little affairs of government? A little more of this, and we look out for trouble.

As individuals we are "small potatoes" in the scheme of economic development. But if each individual does his part to maintain American ideals and industry, "small potatoes" will grow into big potatoes and our national "potato crop" (stability, security, prosperity) will be on a safe and enduring basis. The feat which Captain Charles Lindbergh accomplished is typically American. Nothing could better illustrate our spirit of individual initiative and enterprise. Every American might be called a pioneer, for every American has the right to strike out with his own ideas in whatever field of endeavor appeals to him. It is this priceless heritage of freedom and opportunity for the individual which we should strive to uphold. Our government should always be maintained on a basis which protects and encourages the individual and private industry, rather than on a basis which restricts and destroys experiments, growth and ambition.

Not only was Lindbergh's crossing of the Atlantic typically American in its freedom from pomp and ceremony, but his spirit of adventure and his courage and driving force to accomplish results in the face of seemingly insurmountable barriers. It is this Lindbergh spirit, the American spirit, which has given us our wonderful modern conveniences and comforts.

The development of transcontinental railroads, telephones, electric power, radio, automobiles and our system of business, banking and insurance, without as spectacular as Lindbergh's feat, required a high type of courage, perseverance and enterprise for their successful accomplishment.

Our system of government which has given us unparalleled opportunities, was founded, built up, and is maintained by men capable of understanding the advantages to be derived from the fullest encouragement of individual initiative and enterprise.

The average nursing mother doing her own work requires a diet equivalent to that of the undernourished pregnant woman.

A Sample Day's Menu for the Overweight Expectant Mother

This menu yields 2,000 calories daily, as compared with 3,000 for the average, and 4,000 for the underweight woman: breakfast—raw fruit: one-half grapefruit or orange, bread and butter: one slice of whole-wheat or graham toast with one pat of butter; milk: one cup of cocoa made with whole milk 10 A. Dietary Do's and Don'ts
In pregnancy, eating too much more than once a day may be injurious to health. The physician may advise cutting meat out of the diet; if so, an egg dish may be substituted. Beef, mutton, lamb, poultry and fish are more digestible than pork. Overeating is dangerous in pregnancy, and it will not increase nor even help the milk supply. The average woman has more than 20 pounds during pregnancy; the overweight woman may be better for gaining less or not at all.
Breads and cereals should be made of whole grain because of its high mineral and vitamin content. Whole wheat, oats, corn and other grains can be obtained in flour or cereal form. Cereals may be used for breakfast foods and in mush, muffins, puddings and soup. Butter or cream served on food adds greatly to the vitamin as well as the fuel value of the diet.
The green leafy vegetables such as spinach, chard, lettuce, endive, green cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, string beans, dandelion greens, turnip tops, and beet tops have a value in the diet far greater than tubers, such as potatoes, root vegetables, such as carrots or legumes, such as peas or beans. The leafy vegetables, and fruit, either fresh or dried, should be used freely by every mother. They are not fattening. The overweight woman should reduce her use of sugar, potato, bread and cereal. Plenty of fruit and vegetables, with the help of whole-grain breads and cereals, makes the diet laxative.

Building Bones and Teeth

Mineral salts and vitamins of milk, eggs, vegetables, fruits, and whole grain, build bones and teeth. Outdoor sunshine is necessary for the best growth, and the mother's sunning herself in the open air helps to prevent rickets in the baby.
Man has 52 teeth altogether, and they begin to form by the third month of prenatal life. All the first set of 20 teeth are inside the jaw at birth, and their crowns are almost completely calcified. By the time the first tooth appears, the enamel is all formed up on the temporary set. Practically all the teeth are formed by the 18 months when the mother is the main source of food for her baby. Good teeth protected by well-formed jaws depend on the abundance of calcium (or lime), phosphorus, and vitamins in the mother's food. Milk is the great lime food.

The thyroid gland, which is necessary for normal growth and health, must have a small amount of iodine in it. Iodine is found in the thyroid gland and forms a goiter. In certain regions, especially around the Great Lakes and in the Northwest, the water and soil are deficient in iodine, so that food grown in those localities may not provide the necessary iodine. Lesson for January 8 JESUS AND THE SICK

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:21-45.
GOLDEN TEXT—He hath done all things well: He maketh both the deaf to hear and the dumb to speak.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Makes Sick People Well.

JUNIOR TOPIC—John Welcomes and Baptizes Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Shows His Sympathy and Power.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Jesus' Power to Make Whole.

The purpose of Mark in this section is to show Jesus Christ the Divine Servant bearing God's message and clothed with the power to save lost souls. Coupled with His supernatural strength is revealed His unvaried sympathy, giving itself out in helpful and saving service.

1. Jesus Teaching With Authority (vv. 21, 22).

He was in the synagogue in Capernaum where He with four disciples repaired "straightway" upon His entrance into the village. He availed Himself of the regular channel of instruction. Though many abuses had crept into the synagogue service, He chose to associate the new with the old order.

2. The time (v. 21).
His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought Him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded. He came not to destroy but to fulfill the law, even the law of the Sabbath.

3. The impression (v. 22).
The people were astonished. Two things about His teaching impressed the hearers.

The substance of His message. The scribes, the professional teachers of the law merely quoted the authorities, but Jesus with first-hand knowledge set forth the truth with the enthusiasm of freshness and personal conviction. This distinction was quickly detected by those who heard Him.

4. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv. 23-25).
1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23).
Perhaps he interrupted Jesus while He was teaching. When the power of God is manifested there is bound to be an outcry of the evil spirits.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24).
"Thou art the Holy One of God."
The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ, and was now forced to confess Him as the Holy One.

3. Christ's attitude toward him (v. 25).
He asked and accepted no testimony from him, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit. He not only is Himself pure but is able to deliver others from impurity. Christ wants confession only from pure lips.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 26).
The spirit was reluctant to leave the man and mansion to the end, for the man whom he had to leave. He had to acknowledge his defeat and went out in a howling rage.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28).
The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

(1) The new doctrine which He brought.

(2) His authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law of Fever (vv. 29-31).
This scene fits in the home of one of the disciples. He went home with Simon and Andrew who told Him of the condition of Peter's mother-in-law. He came at once and lifted her up and the fever departed. She immediately ministered to Him.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34).
"Though the day was strenuous in its labors, He came unwearied even when the sun had set, to meet the needs of the multitudes who had gathered from all parts of the city. He healed many of their diseases, cast out demons, not allowing them to speak. The demons knew Him, but the poor, blind people knew Him not."

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-45).
As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, His power became known. A leper came to Him saying, "If Thou wilt, Thou canst make me clean."

Jesus put forth His hand and touched him, saying, "I will, be thou clean," and immediately the leprosy departed and he was cleansed.

Beauty of Bible Thoughts
I am of the opinion that the Bible contains more true sensibility, more exquisite beauty, more pure morality, more important history, and finer strains of poetry and eloquence than can be collected from all other books, in whatever age or language they may be written.—Sir William Jones.

Occupation
Absence of occupation is not rest; a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—Covper.

WEST SUMMER
Christmas was very quiet in West Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Grant entertained their brother, Horace Grant and family and Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Heath at Christmas dinner.

The William A. Barrow's Relief Crops members remembered the Soldiers and their widows, the sick and aged ones with generous boxes of fruit and candy—all those that received were grateful and pleased to be remembered.

Mrs. Elsie Barrows is still very feeble. Lovell Chandler is to move to West Paris where he has employment.

Mrs. Ella Chandler has her summer kitchen finished.

Getting up Nights

For Bladder Relief, Is Nature's Danger Signal.

Columbus Minister's Wife

Relates Experience.

Rev. W. H. Mitchell, 224 No. Park St., Columbus, Ohio, says in his own home paper, the Columbus Dispatch: "My wife was troubled seriously with bladder irritation until we used Lithiated Eucua (Keller Formula). She had to get up 5 to 8 times each night. Will gladly answer any letter."

Lithiated Eucua acts on the bladder as salts do on the bowels. Drives out foreign matter and decreases excessive acidity, thereby relieving irritation. The tablets cost 25c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratories, Manufacturers, Columbus, Ohio. Locally at Dr. V. Ashwin's, druggist.

John Quill Finds A Regular Hen Fruit Garden

Every once in a while some long-haired scientist starts the world by announcing the fact that he has discovered a new planet or a long-tailed comet that is going to reorganize the world and send his name rattling down to posterity like a dog with a tomato can tied to his tail. It is possible he has solved that perplexing question of what makes holes in old Swiss cheese. But I find that geniuses are born, not made. I will admit that most geniuses are more or less hobbit riders and liable to be arrested for fast driving on the hobby. I found one the other day that is a wonder and has put an eclipse on anything that has come to my knowledge since the flashbushes were put on the dam. The young man, the question is a hobby rider and like the rest of his species is as full of hobbies as a skimmer is of holes.

All during the summer months his hobby was amateur farming. He doted on tilling the ground with a hoe and see the crops laughingly come forth. His garden was a model of perfection, in fact he had devoted so much of his spare time playing the part of the man with the hoe that he looks like old Atlas with the world on his shoulders. But also he has a neighbor whose lot adjoins his, and whose hobby is hens of all kinds. He does not sit up and burn out the middle of the night trying to figure out just what President Coolidge meant when he said he did not choose to run but just how many eggs he is going to get per hen. The hens under his neighbor's care, however, came over in a neighborly way at least once a day and hold their annual convention, using his garden for a banquet hall. Now he does not object to having the seeds picked out some of his tomatoes, but does object to having all his tomatoes made seedless a la Burbank.

After an absence from home for a day he returned to find his garden a beautiful ruin and his crop of seedless tomatoes requiring grafting. He expostulated with his neighbor, whose motto is "never do today what you can put off until tomorrow." "O yes," neighbor, "I will look after it right away," and the hen continued to use his garden for a tennis court. One day the A. F. had brain storm, a bright idea struck him, the first in a life time, and he proceeded to put it into execution. Knowing his neighbor's habits of parking himself on an easy chair on his own veranda Sunday afternoons, with a funny paper for a companion, he procured a dozen eggs and proceeded before the neighbor appeared to place the eggs in the grass along the border of his garden.

After the trap had been set he started out with his hoe and made a pretense of working. Seeing his neighbor, he in a friendly manner, asked him to use his garden. Starting along the path to welcome his guest, to extend the glad hand and at the same time reached down and picked up an egg. Looking around he discovered others of his kind and replaced the whole dozen. The egg man's eyes bulged out and after some complimentary remarks, said, "How many hens do you keep?" The amateur said, "O, I don't keep hens. I never kept a hen in my life." The hen man seemed preoccupied and under the pretense of a previous engagement departed.

The amateur farmer smiled and seemed at peace with all mankind. Monday morning a truck drove up with a load of barbed wire and fencing enough to fence in Rhode Island. By noon there was a stockade around the hen yard that would have held a convict camp. The A. F. smile broadened until it looked like a full moon. He slept that night the sleep of the innocent and blest. Visions of hens scratching his tomatoes had faded out of the picture.

The other day these two good farmers met and after discussing the World series and the high price of butter, drifted into the farming question. The egg man said, "Funny, after I put that egg around my lot I didn't seem to get any more eggs than I did before. Where did you get those large eggs you picked up that Sunday afternoon I was over here?" "O, yes the farmer said, as he caressed a good-smelling cigar, "didn't I ever tell you about them? Not well, I planted them there just before you came over." The hen man departed with that feeling that an easy mark is born every minute, sometimes they are twins—John Quill in the Kennebec Journal.

OPPORTUNITIES THAT NEED NOT BE LOST

Are people today so busy "making a living" that they have not time to live? Are business men and other workers engrossed in providing for their families that they cut themselves off from any true family life?

Is there not a tendency among intimate groups to postpone a closer personal approach, especially between younger and older associates, because of the hurry and pressure of work and social diversions? Roger Babson, the economist and statistician, has suggested these questions by a letter in which he recently commented feelingly upon his discovery of the opportunities he had lost for intercourse with business friends and with his own father, when those connections were unexpectedly ended by death.

Naturally we all take life for granted. Prudent business men insure their lives and make their wills, and usually feel that they have done all that can be reasonably expected of them in anticipation of the possibility of death.

Yet the passing of a member of a family or of a prominent figure in some intimate group almost invariably brings to those who remain a keen sense of lost opportunities which might have enriched their lives with treasured memories and with the practical experience of another's experience.

We need no morbid sense of the brevity of life to realize how much we are often missing in our daily associations. Back of the rush and hurry in which so many of us live, is there not perhaps a certain shyness which holds us aloof from the kind of frank and intimate contact in which we come closest to the real values of life?

How many of us when we have lost loved ones or elderly friends, can truly say we knew them as we might have known them? How many of us, looking back about our families and our business associates, can say that we are giving ourselves to them as fully as we might. We should like to get advice and counsel from those of larger knowledge. We should like to meet the needs of those who look to us for some wisdom of experience. Yet we hurry through the days, and the end comes, and the experience is lost.

As Mr. Babson says, "What a mistake we are making in giving so much time to business and so little to our parents and our families." Very few of us are so important in any large enterprise that we cannot be replaced. But in our family circle and among our intimate friends, we have a place that no one else can fill.

Do we make the most of that opportunity? Do we give of our best to those who need us most? Or do we, too often, let the business of living come between us and the more important things of life?

Planning Meetings

Farm Bureau planning meetings held much attention in Fryeburg, East Fryeburg and Hiram, last week. Nineteen men and women met at the I. O. O. F. hall at Fryeburg Center, Tuesday, Dec. 29, for their annual farm bureau planning meeting. Splendid reports of last year's work were given by the members and plans made for much extension work in the community for 1928. A splendid dinner was served at noon by the ladies of the organization. Interest in the Farm Bureau is very keen this year. The women have increased their membership from 12 to 19 and their list of projects is yet. New projects in garment making, renovation of furniture, and foods, promise to be very fascinating. The officers for Fryeburg community are as follows: Men's division: chairman, Frank Buzzell; dairy, L. D. Charles; farm management, Leo R. Bell; forestry and poultry, Stillman Barker. Women's division: chairman, Mrs. Leah Charles; secretary, Mrs. Florence Bulger; clothing, Mrs. Gladys Pray; foods, Mrs. Maude Gray; household management, Mrs. Marjorie Gupill; millinery, Mrs. Bessie Barker. At East Fryeburg, Friday, Dec. 30, the school children, a very interesting program, consisting of readings and recitations. East Fryeburg also has increased its membership from 15 to 17. A full extension program was planned for the men's and women's divisions. Officers elected are as follows: Men's division, chairman, Warren Richardson; farm management, Earl Osgood; forestry, Lewis Walker; crops, Samuel Richardson; dairy, Earl Osgood. Women's division: chairman, Mrs. Laura E. Richardson; secretary, Mrs. Bernice Harnden; clothing, Mrs. Marjorie Warren; foods, Mrs. Laura Walker; household management, Mrs. Abbie Brown; millinery, Mrs. Lettie Lord.

Hiram beat the county so far in local program and attendance. The hall was a scene of merry-making and fun demonstrated. "How the Women go to Farm Bureau Meetings in a Ford," Mrs. J. A. Clemons, Mrs. Dorothy Page, Mrs. Velma Spring and Mrs. Ethel Moulton participated in this contest. The ladies said a woman can't blow tires after seeing that?

Fifty-two people sat down to the delicious dinner served by the ladies' organization. The afternoon was well attended when plans were made for 1928. Following are the officers elected: Men's division: chairman, R. N. Lowell; dairy, B. F. Tuttle; farm management, L. A. Noble; farm management, J. M. Moore; forestry, R. N. Lowell; poultry, Tom Hammond.

Women's division: chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Page; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Page; clothing, Mrs. A. M. Noble; foods, Mrs. Chester F. Neal; household management, Mrs. Henrietta Hammond; millinery, Mrs. Velma Spring. The morning communities will hold their planning meetings during the next two weeks: Oxford, Jan. 3; South Paris, Jan. 4; Waterville, Jan. 6; Bethel, Jan. 10; Bethel, Jan. 11; Woodstock, Jan. 12; and Norway, Jan. 13.

BATES—WEST PARIS

Industries Booming—Benson-Jones Wednesday—L. J. Mann gone to Hospital.

Penley Bros. Co. built a building last fall on the flat top river on the left side up stream beyond the Falls. It is to be used for a home and this they opened for work this last week with twelve men employed. They are saving out, spool strips. Electric power is being used, which makes very much difference in operation at the present time, best the Burnham-Morrill canning factory, which was not run this year for sweet corn canning being the first time, we believe, since that business plant was established here. This season, too, has not included the fields since a mile or so out that feeds one man, giving employment to quite a lot of men.

Willing took place at the M. B. parsonage last Thursday evening, Dec. 29. The contracting parties were Merton D. Benson of South Paris and Elizabeth S. Jones of West Paris. Rev. E. H. Stover officiated. They were accompanied by Mr. Benson's brother, Roland Benson, and wife. Benson's parents live in Canton, by name, O. M. Jones.

A ten pound baby boy was born into the world at West Paris, Friday, Tuesday morning, Jan. 3, for which they are very happy. Mrs. Abner Benson of South Woodstock is caring for mother and baby.
